

About Leaderlike and Karen J. Hewitt

Karen J. Hewitt is Director of Leaderlike Ltd. and has spent the last twelve years creating leadership movements for health and safety, both within large organisations and outside of them. Combining transformational leadership with change communications, she breathes new life into traditional health, safety and wellbeing thinking and believes that transformational health and safety starts with leading, and communicating, in a way that breaks with the status quo. Her second book “People Power – Transform your Business in the Era of Safety and Wellbeing,” published in 2021, has won several awards and been an Amazon no. 1 bestseller multiple times. Most recently, she demonstrates what ‘communicating differently’ on health and safety looks like, in her 2023 TEDx talk, entitled ‘The Two Questions That Could Save Your Life.’